Good day
As discussed last week telephonically with your team, I needed to provide a proposal on how I intend to pay off the overdue tax amounts I'm due to the IRD. Please find the details below:
1. Regular payments of $1500 per month paid on the 15th of every month, starting Dec 2018, coming from my salary. Please see further below a breakdown of my monthly cashflow.
2. Additional ad-hoc payments of $10 000 every quarter, paid on 31 Mar 19, 30 June 19, 30 Sep 19 and 31 Dec 19.
I'm taking on additional software development projects from existing and previous clients to generate extra income to service my IRD debt.
3. My goal is to have at least $58 000 of my debt paid off by the end of 2019. And by end of 2020 to have this all paid off. If there's any additional funds I can generate, I'll pay this over to the IRD to service my debt.
4. To prevent me from landing up in the same situation, the contracting firm that I contract through will be paying over 25% of my monthly salary to the IRD. My accountant, Vision Accounting, will also be overseeing my monthly GST calculation and ensure it gets paid over on a monthly basis. Please advise if this proposal will be accepted as an arrangement to pay off my outstanding debt with the IRD. Thanks very much. Kind regards
